Bèta

growing in high-tech R&D

TWICE
building high tech success
With its hubs, TWICE offers a particularly stimulating environment for young, innovative technology companies. Bèta is one of the hubs, situated on the High Tech Campus.

‘The smartest square kilometer’. TWICE offers next generation high tech companies space to grow faster: ‘building high tech success’.

Eindhoven and the Brainport region - an area in which innovative companies and knowledge institutes apply for above-average numbers of patents. The high-tech industry is a major driving force. And Research & Development (R&D) is extremely important in this. In order to do your work well, a perfect workplace is indispensable. Our R&D hub Bèta has this and more.

It is fully equipped with modern flexible office space and high-quality laboratories. Hub Bèta is primarily home to technology companies active in high-tech Research & Development. People in the same field or industry. People who also believe in sharing knowledge and the power of the network. In this way you help each other in the research or the development of your product or service.

Establishing your company in Bèta means working with more than 10,000 technicians within walking distance at a vibrant location. All the facilities of the High Tech Campus are available: research facilities, conference center, childcare, sports facilities and numerous networks.
